

Bay Area Cancer Connections Announces

Three New Board Members

Daniel Kaplan, Rebecca Brandes and Pamela Ratliff Bring Finance and Medical Expertise to BACC in its 25th Year

Palo Alto, CA — April 3, 2019 — Bay Area Cancer Connections (BACC), the largest nonprofit educator and free support network serving anyone affected by breast and ovarian cancer in the Bay Area, has appointed three new members to its board with extensive experience in finance, health care and medical marketing.

Daniel Kaplan joins the board with more than 30 years of experience in finance including working for companies like Ducati North America, Tesla Motors, Mission Motor Company and currently Interesting Projects Financial Consulting. Kaplan will serve as BACC Board Treasurer.

Rebecca Brandes currently serves as the global marketing director for cancer genetics at Agilent Technologies and has more than 20 years of expertise gained from leading companies in life sciences, diagnostics and routine clinical testing.

Pamela Ratliff is an associate director at Stanford Cancer Institute and holds a Masters of Public Administration degree with a concentration in Healthcare Administration and Management from Louisiana State University. Ratliff has several decades of experience in the field of cancer and public health.

"BACC is extremely fortunate to have a tremendous depth of experience on our board that will help guide us in our continued growth as we celebrate our 25th year as an organization," said Rina Bello, Executive Director of BACC. "Daniel, Rebecca and Pamela will be extremely valuable assets and we're thrilled they joined our team."

The BACC board is now made up of 16 individuals. For more information, visit our website.

About BACC

Bay Area Cancer Connections (BACC) is the region's largest nonprofit educator and support network serving those affected by breast or ovarian cancer. The agency offers a wide range of free, personalized services designed to inform and empower individuals, including emotional support, cancer education, counseling and more.
